AFI KLM E&M Handles Two Air Lease Corp 737-800s

Deal includes cabin modifications, maintenance checks and repainting.

Paris, Amstelveen, 6 January 2012 – Air Lease Corporation (ALC) contracted AFI KLM E&M to perform maintenance checks, repainting and modifications on two Boeing 737-800s. Subsequently, these aircraft were delivered to their new lessees, Caribbean Airlines and Transaero Airlines. At the MRO's facilities at Schiphol Amsterdam Airport, the aircraft underwent a C check, then were painted and reconfigured to a new cabin layout.

Jean-Marc Salomon, AFI KLM E&M Regional Sales Director Key Accounts, highlighted “the outstanding job done by AFI KLM E&M production staff. ALC was extremely satisfied with the responsiveness and quality of service achieved by the Group on this workscope.”

Responsiveness and adaptability

Less than a month elapsed between ALC's initial request and the arrival of the aircraft at the Schiphol facility. During this very short interval, AFI KLM E&M staff was able to develop solutions that corresponded exactly to ALC's expectations and seamlessly adapted to an evolving workscope. ALC was pleased with the speed at which AFI KLM E&M's services were executed.

Alex Khatibi, Executive Vice President of ALC, said: “ALC and its customers continue to rely on AFI KLM E&M's efficient program execution. Their service team's ability to deliver solutions while adjusting to our time-sensitive demands is in line with the service standard we expect from AFI KLM E&M and other providers.”
